General Grant and his party have done much to destroy confidence, still more to cast a cloud over the prosperity of the future. With the South they have exhibited an uninterrupted series of wrongs, insults and deceptions. They waged war, s they said, to restore the revolting tates to the Union. When the armie under Lee and Johnston surrendered and gave their parole, every man in the South said, "We secept the situation. We will do all that we can to rebuild our shattered fortunes and restore confidence, prosperity and fraternity to a bleeding country." Restoring the States to the Union was the least of their objects. The inquisition, it is said, would not have been so terrible if something else than the souls of Jews and heretics had not been hunted for; nor would there have been any difficulty in inder Lee and Johnston surrendered and would there have been any difficulty in restoring the States to the Union if that alone was sought. The sequel has proven they wanted something else. They wanted, above all things, to persecute their wickhed party in power. To do this, they desired to place over us Northern men, that they might monopo-ize all the offices, control the legislation, ast and fatten upon the spoils of the outh. To do these things it was necesisaries charged with the duty of poison-ing the minds and hearts of the black race gainst the native whites hoping by oing, that they would obtain a life-lo party and no sensible body. All sensible people are for reform or against rope will swell emigration to the desing the South. In this flee the secret re thousand ripe scholars, learned an tinguished statesmen and experience distinguished statesmen and experienced diplomats, out of these President Grant has not been able to find one single man whom he could intrust with a foreign mission. If we look farther, we shall find in the Senate, in Congress, on the bench, in all the offices of honor and profit in these States, with a few exceptions, that they are monopolized by imported men, in whom we have no sympathy or confidence, Many of them filling high places in the Senate and on the bench who could not be elected constables or justices of the peace where they were raised and known.

With these mistrusts, wrongs and insults deliberately thrust in our faces, so far from any proad spirited old-line Whig joining them. I very much doubt whether a citizen to the manor born can be found who will do so. If such can be loand, I do not say so, I very much fear many persons will think, if they do not say it, that they are either too ignorant to understand, too mean spirited to resent an insult, or base that thrift may follow fawning. In the recent election to resent an insult, or base that thrift may follow fawning. In the recent election for Governor and other State officers of this State, the sovereign people, in the exercise of the elective franchise, an unallenable right, thought proper to cast by a very large majority their suffrages in favor of Senter over Stokes and against the administration party. For doing this, at Washington they were considered contumacious, disloyal, and an effort was made to reconstruct the State by placing the military over them,
